CRYSTAL GAYLE

Woman Enough To Keep Her Man Happy!

Her tawny hair flowing sexily down to her waist, her blue eyes lazily sending out love signals, Crystal Gayle has become the darling of usually hard-hearted music critics. What is her appeal? One reviewer exclaims she is like a breath of fresh air; she comes on without an elaborate, phony act, "she's not glib or funny or oozing charm. She's a girl-next-door type and not a sharp-tongued chatter-box." In other words, she's pure country!

Most of her success, Gayle credits to Bill Gatzimos, the high school sweetheart she was smart enough to marry. Gayle is grateful to Bill for postponing law school to launch her career. Then she helped put him through and that's why their love is so special; each cares deeply about the other and they talk things out. Pouring out her heart into such superhits as "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue," has turned Crystal into an award-winning songstress. She is most proud of her two statues from the Country Music Association as the best female vocalist of the year. But, despite her pleasure in singing and performing, Crystal has her priorities straight. "I'm mobile in my career," she says. "Whenever Bill wants to go, I'll go." What man wouldn't be charmed forever by a top-ranked entertainer saying she'd give it all up just to be with him?

TV's most beautiful star, Victoria Principal doesn't agree. The stunning city girl who used to live in the fast lane claims she divorced Chris Skinner because "he finally realized he wanted a more traditional marriage with a lady more available at home. It's no secret that I have a career." And it's no secret that tho she is having a lovely fling with Andy Gibb, that could end in a moment, leaving her very lonely— but Crystal knows Bill will always be there. ●
